The recent British election bringing to the Nationalist government the most complete victory in the history of British elections may well be an important step upward out of the world-wide depression. A few weeks ago a great many people were fearful that Great Britain was about to be engulfed in a wave of financial chaos. There were rumors of mutiny in the British navy, the budget was unbalanced and the country had to go off the gold standard. The British Empire had apparently come to the parting of the ways.

That there was a real national crisis, that the nation was faced with the choice of a return of fundamentals or chaos, is not to be doubted. In this hour, the inherent patriotism of the British people asserted itself, and the result was the most decisive blow for nationalism and against international socialism in the history of the country. That this occurred need not surprise those who are in any way familiar with the history of Great Britain. Separated from the mainland by water, the British people were able to form a nation, long before the same thing was possible on the continent. As an island nation the people early became convinced that their national safety rested on a foundation of unity and national defense. National defense took the form of the most powerful navy in the world.

As a result, British tradition is centuries old, and for many generations the people have been convinced that their very existence depended on their national unity and their British traditions. So successful were the efforts of the people that the little island country grew to be an empire on which the sun never set. National traditions of safety were therefore reinforced by national pride. Of late there have been indications that the British empire might disintegrate, that Great Britain might lose its place as the clearing house of the world's business. Whether or not this is true, the fact remains that when the British people realized that their nationalism, and their place in the sun was threatened by economic disaster, and realized the cause of this threatened disintegration, they spoke in no uncertain terms and the conservatism in government was the result.

There is a lesson for America in this election. The time may come, perhaps sooner than many of us realize, when we will be faced with a choice between fundamental principles of government and national disintegration. Will our answer be as decisive as that of Great Britain? It is true that we have written a glorious history in the short time allotted to us as a nation. We do not possess centuries of tradition and national unity, as found in Great Britain, but we do have, or had until recently, an American spirit which balked at no danger and no handicap. The great heart of America is still sound, still adheres to the fundamental principles of American government. But there are abroad in the land forces of disintegration, as powerful as those which almost wrecked havoc in Great Britain. We have men in high places, so called intellectuals who sneer at patriotism, who deny the teaching of history from an American standpoint and who would destroy our national defense and our constitutional government.

At present they seem to be getting the space in the newspapers, and a great deal more attention than they deserve. What will the result be? If we are to meet the crisis as Great Britain has met it, when our hour as a nation strikes, is it not necessary that we have a revival of real patriotism and of national thought? There is too much internationalism abroad in the land, too much philosophy which has its roots in Eastern Europe rather than in the soil of America. When we get back to preaching first principles, and acting them as well as preaching them, in our religion, in our business, and in our home and social life, things will once more adjust themselves and the good ship America will move forward again.

WATCH YOUR STEP IN WET WEATHER,
SAYS HIWAY DEPT.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 24.—Wet weather is here—drive carefully! E. Raymond Cato, Chief of the California Highway Patrol, warned drivers of motor vehicles in California today pointing out that driving conditions will be more hazardous during the rainy season than at any other period of the year.

December, January and February are high months in motor vehicle accidents, Cato said. A large number of them are traceable to the failure of the drivers to take weather factors, such as rain, fog and slippery roads into consideration.

A general inspection of the car with particular attention to tires, brakes, lights and windshield wipers was urged by the patrol chief. Here are a few wet weather don't's suggested by Chief Cato: Don't drive at high speed on slippery streets and highways. Always have your car under control remembering you can't stop in wet weather as quickly as in dry weather.

Don't slam on the brakes in wet weather when coming to a stop. Avoid skidding by leaving the clutch engaged and braking gently until your car is under control.

Don't lose your head and slam on your brakes if you skid.

Don't use tires from which the tread is worn during wet weather. Smooth tires increase skidding danger.

Don't fail to have your lights and brakes tested for the wet weather season.

Don't allow your license plates to become beclouded with dirt. Keep them clean.

Don't fail to drive carefully at all times with due regard for the safety of yourself and others.

LOCAL NINE BEATS
SANTA CLARA 6-0

In one of the fastest baseball games of the season, Campbell defeated the Santa Clara Merchants 6-0 at Campbell Sunday.

The preceding Sunday the two teams played a 12-inning tie game with a record crowd. The game was called on account of darkness and this Sunday before one of the largest crowds on the local diamond the Campbellites showed their superiority. With Martin pitching and Van Dusen catching only two hits were allowed the Merchants with nine men striking out.

Carlo pitched for the Merchants and allowed 11 hits. Sunseri scored the only home run of the game, with Fargos and Watson making three base hits.

The Campbell baseball team is the guest of honor at a Turkey dinner this evening given by the Kiwanis club.

A regular meeting of the Cambrian Home and School club will be held at the school house Wednesday, December 2.

For us and while many propound the doctrines that everything in our present day is all wrong, we have lots to be thankful for, if we only look across the seas at our neighbors. We can also give thanks for what progress we have made in the face of present day problems.

MOTORISTS MAY APPLY FOR TAGS
AFTER DEC. 1ST

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 24.—Application for 1932 license plates will be accepted by the Department of Motor Vehicles at Sacramento on and after December 1 if sent by mail.

This announcement was made today by Russell Bevans, Registrar of the Department, who said his staff of workers was completing final plans for the renewal of more than 2,000,000 licenses during the next six weeks.

Although counter deliveries will not open at Sacramento or any of the branch offices of the department until December 15th, the motorist may save himself a special trip for plates by enclosing his fee and certificate of registration in an envelope and mailing them to Sacramento.

The applications thus received will be tabulated and plates prepared for mailing. Motorists will receive them shortly after Christmas as the department has an agreement with the postal authorities to withhold plates from the mails until after the holidays in order to avoid congestion.

Bevans urges car owners of the state to avail themselves of this very simple method of obtaining plates by forwarding their applications at once.

Here are some of the points the motor vehicle registrar urges you to remember in applying for plates by mail:

Be sure that your present address is the same as that shown on your white certificate. If you have moved mark out the old address and write in the new.

The new law requires that you give the serial number of your car and the number of cylinders. Write this information on your certificate when you mail it in.

Do not send currency for your fee. Send certified checks, bank drafts or money orders.

The fee for registration is the same as last year, $3 for passenger cars and for commercial vehicles weighing less than 3,000 pounds. The fee for vehicles above this weight is based on the weight and number of wheels.

If you have completed the payments on your car during the year send your pink certificate properly signed by the person or firm from whom the car was purchased and $1 extra to complete the transfer. In such a case the total fee for license and transfer would be $4.

Mrs. Louis Shelley who has been the director of the Camp Fire Girls of this county for several years has announced her resignation on January 1. Mrs. Edna Sefton will succeed Mrs. Shelley.

Japanese Defeat Chinese in Bloody Battle While League Council and Dawes Seek Road to Peace.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

HOW to bring to an end the official war between Japan and China was the problem that was taken up again by the council of the League of Nations at its meeting in Paris. And, coincidentally, there was the job of extricating the league from the unpleasant situation created by Japan's flat refusal to obey its orders. The distinguished diplomats were aided in their task by Ambassador Dawes, who was instructed to proceed from London to act as ambassador observer.

While the council discussed, debated and conferred, the Japanese troops went right along with their program in Manchuria. Gen. Ma Chan-shan, commander of the Chinese army in Heilungkiang province, was ordered by General Honjo, Japanese commander, to withdraw his troops from Anganchi and Tsitsihar, the latter the capital of the province. Ma refused to obey and the Japanese opened a fierce attack with all arms, including bombing planes which dispersed the Chinese cavalry. In bitterly cold weather the battle raged for many hours and the Chinese were finally forced out of both the cities named. In this operation the Japanese troops advanced within the sphere of influence of Soviet Russia for the first time, and as Moscow had warned them against doing this, it was believed the result might be momentous. In this big battle along the Nonni river both sides were reported to have sustained heavy casualties.

Anticipating a Russian protest, Japan notified Moscow that it held the Chinese Eastern railway partly responsible for the hostilities because it had transported Chinese troops.

IN PARIS General Dawes was much more than an observer. Indeed, he was the central figure and it was hoped that in his talks with Taneio Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to London, a compromise might be worked out. Dawes also had a long conversation with Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, which both of them said was most profitable. There were rumors that the United States had come to the conclusion that Japan's contentions should be upheld, and the league officials were worried. But these stories were refuted by a statement from Secretary of State Stimson to the effect that the United States stood firmly on the question of treaties and had not thus far committed itself in any way. Dawes and the council were trying to gather the real facts in the controversy, and Japan was asked to state in detail just what she demanded from China. There was a report that Dawes and Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, were contemplating invoking the nine power treaty signed at Washington in 1922.

Aristide Briand, president of the council, though exhausted to the point of illness, was as busy as Dawes, especially in negotiations with Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese delegate and his close friend. From Nanking came two important items of news. One was that the Kuomintang congress had declared in favor of war on Japan in case the league should fail to settle the quarrel. The other was the statement of the nationalist government that it would regard any Manchurian government headed by Hsuan Tung, former emperor, otherwise Henry Pu-yi, as a "seditious institution" and would repudiate all its acts. Hsuan Tung was taken to Mukden by the Japanese, who presumably intended to make him a puppet emperor of that country, but what had become of him was unknown. He was said to have declared he would commit suicide rather than serve as a tool of Japan.

WHEN congress assembles there will be again a woman member of the senate, for Mrs. Thaddeus H. Caraway has been appointed to succeed her late husband temporarily as senator from Arkansas. The only other woman senator who have had was Mrs. Rebecca Felton of Georgia, who held the office nominally and for but a short time. Mrs. Caraway, however, may be expected to be an active member, for she was a close student of politics and government during the long public life of her husband. It is likely that the Arkansas Democrats will nominate her for the special election to be called in that case she is certain to be elected to fill out the unexpired term.

The wet bloc in the house of representatives will gain another vote through the nomination of Donald McLean by the Republicans of the Fifth district of New Jersey to complete the term of the late Ernest R. Ackerman. He will contest for the seat with Percy H. Stewart, Democratic nominee, at a special election December 1. Both the gentlemen are advocates of revision or repeal of prohibition, while Mr. Ackerman was a Republican dry. The district is normally Republican.

PRESIDENT HOOVER announced that he had accepted the resignation of Henry P. Fletcher as chairman of the federal tariff commission to take effect on November 30. Mr. Fletcher some time ago indicated his wish to resign, but at the President's request remained in office. He had served since the commission's organization, 14 months ago.

In submitting his resignation Mr. Fletcher appended a report of the commission's work, showing that by November 30 its docket would be cleared of all applications and senate requests for information.

GERMANY and France, represented by Secretary of State Buelow and M. Briand, reached an agreement on the formula by which the Germans should call for a moratorium on reparations under the terms of the Young plan, and the text of the request was presented to the world bank at Basel after the American and British representatives in Berlin had been shown the letter. The German government asks the world bank and the international powers to investigate her ability to pay the reparations and to help Germany formulate a plan to pay her private debts. The latest report of the Reichsbank shows that despite a favorable trade balance achieved by Germany in October, the Reichsbank is still very short of foreign currency.

DINO GRANDI, brilliant young foreign minister of Italy and the mouthpiece of Premier Mussolini, has had his three days of conversations with President Hoover and departed from Washington, well satisfied. The results of the talks have not been made public at this time of writing, but it is known that the chief topic was disarmament, in which Mr. Hoover and Mr. Duce are deeply interested. Grandi brought with him Signor Augusto Rosso as one of his chief advisers, because Rosso is an expert on naval affairs and Italy is especially concerned with the comparative strength of her navy. Signor Rosso is at present chief of the Italian foreign office division that deals with the League of Nations, and there have been hints that he might be a future ambassador to Washington.

Signor Grandi was gratified with the news that Aristide Briand, as head of the league council, had declared officially that the one-year armament building truce is in effect as of November 1, for this truce was the suggestion of Grandi—though he called it "an American-Latin idea." In his talks with the correspondents he said: "We think in Italy that the question of disarmament is the most important question existing now in the relations between countries, and that it is high time for everybody to reach some practical result." Asked for his views on war debts and reparations, he called attention to Mussolini's statement in 1922 that war debts and reparations were dependent upon each other and should be scaled down.

THEODORE DREISER, eminent author, and the other members of the self-appointed committee that went to Kentucky to investigate the alleged ill treatment of coal miners in Bell county got themselves into a peck of trouble if the authorities of that state can get hold of them. The grand jury in Bell county indicted Dreiser and his nine companions on charges of criminal syndicalism, accusing them of seeking to promulgate a reign of terror and of suggesting disorders and resistance to the state and federal governments. Conviction carries a penalty of not more than twenty-one years' imprisonment, a fine of $10,000 or less, or both.

The commonwealth's attorney announced he would seek to extradite the alleged offenders, and Dreiser said in New York he would fight extradition. The author and Marie Bergain, one of the committee, already had been indicted for misconduct in a Kentucky hotel.

MAHATMA GANDHI informed the British government that unless it did something for India by December 1 he would sail for Bombay on December 4 to lead a new and greater civil disobedience movement in that country. In that case it is likely he will order a social as well as a commercial boycott against the British, which would mean that no Indians would work for British individuals.

British troops were sent to Kashmir recently to help put down a Moslem revolt in that Indian state, and the Russian government protests, considering the military movement as a distinct menace to its frontier. In consequence Moscow made threats against Afghanistan which led the Afghan government to ask Turkey for the services of a military mission to reorganize its army. And Sir Hari Singh, maharajah of Kashmir, objects to the British taking charge of his country.

NONE of the party leaders in Washington now seem to doubt that there will be legislation to increase federal taxes, for the deficit at the end of the present fiscal year will be too big to be taken care of by further bond issues. Senator Jim Watson of Indiana, majority leader of the senate, said a tax increase was "inescapable," and as he had just been in conference with the President it was assumed this was the opinion of Mr. Hoover. Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, admitted there would have to be further taxation and thought it might be possible to obtain passage of a sales tax. Senator Fess of Ohio said: "The budget must be balanced even if we are compelled to take drastic measures such as was done in England. One line of effort is reductions which are being made so as to reduce the outlay. The other must be increase in revenue. I also believe that there will be enacted excise taxes on certain articles." Senator Bingham of Connecticut advocates restoration of nuisance taxes, especially on soft drinks. The "progressive" Republicans are calling for higher income taxes in the higher brackets, and there may be little opposition to this in either party.

Democratic leaders had less to say, for their program is not yet settled. Anyhow they expect the administration to recommend the tax increase and thus shoulder the responsibility, after which they can decide how they think the deficit should be met.

AMERICAN exporters, already worried by the seeming certainty of British tariff legislation, were further dismayed by the news that the Turkish government had issued a decree drastically limiting the importation of 1,000 articles, no consideration being given to merchandise in customs or en route. America is hit by limits placed on such articles as automobiles, motion picture films, camera films, automobile tires and radios. Comparatively small amounts of these articles will be permitted to enter the country during November and December, and new quotas will be fixed for succeeding months.

MORE trouble has come upon the bureau of prohibition through the killing of a youth in Englewood, Colo., by Henry Dierks, a dry agent. The people out there are greatly aroused, and the bureau started an investigation of the affair. Dierks, in making a raid, found the young man, Milford Smith, in possession of a bottle of wine and in a struggle with him clubbed him to death. The city council of Englewood passed and sent to the bureau in Washington a resolution in which were set forth some of the incidents in Dierks' career. It charged that Dierks, while acting as an undercover man a few years ago, had employed a seventeen-year-old girl as an informer; that he had got drunk collecting evidence in a raid and that in 1930 he had clubbed a helpless prisoner with his revolver. Howard T. Jones, assistant director of prohibition, said this was all news to the bureau and that there was nothing in its records to the discredit of Dierks.

According to the Englewood police, Dierks fractured Smith's skull with a blow with the butt of his revolver and then placed him in jail where he remained nine hours without medical attention. Smith died soon after being taken to a hospital.

PHILIP SNOWDEN, who served ably in the house of commons for a quarter of a century and for two terms was chancellor of the exchequer, has been created a viscount by King George and elevated to the house of peers so that he may hold the office of lord privy seal in the national government. He declined to run for re-election to the lower house because of ill health. (© 1931. Western Newspaper Union.)

OLD SETTLER DAY PROGRAM PLANNED

Preliminary plans for a huge Old Settlers' day and Washington bi-centennial celebration February were laid at a meeting to-night of representatives of Campbell's leading organizations.

In addition to the customary parade of Colonial costumes and patriotic observances which have been witnessed in Campbell each Washington's birthday anniversary for the past 36 years, planting of a Washington bi-centennial tree is planned and other features designed to make the celebration a country-wide event. According to the aims of the committee, Campbell will be the center of the county's observance of a nation-wide holiday in honor of the 200th birthday of the first President.

Dr. F. R. Anderson, president of the chamber of commerce, heads the general committee, with Guy Farley and Percy Dunlap on his chamber committee; T. A. Cutting, C. H. Whitman and S. N. Hedegard represent the Kiwanis club, and Mrs. F. L. Howes, Mrs. L. J. Carboni and Mrs. W. C. Bohnett the County Woman's club.

Jack Wehmeyer was treated for an injured ankle and a severe shake-up by Dr. W. I. Merrill. The injury was received last Friday as Mr. Wehmeyer was stepping from his car.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 73,434 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile — less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs.

The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford car.
